Qokolweni Animal Branding

Livestock farmers in Qokolweni invited the Ntinga O.R. Tambo Development Agency to help them with branding their livestock. This animal branding initiative took place at the Nyandeni dipping tank No. 1027 in Qokolweni on November 20, 2024. Farmers from the surrounding areas who utilized the Nyandeni dipping tank benefited from the program.

According to Mr. Siyabulela “Daluzuko” Sangoni from the Qokolweni Royal Family, local farmers invited Ntinga to brand their animals to reduce the chances of stock theft in the area. “We believe that stock thieves will now be deterred from taking our branded animals,” he stated. Nkosi Daluzuko explained that they decided to brand their livestock, particularly cattle, and horses, following a theft incident in December 2023, during which stock thieves visited their community, resulting in many farmers losing sheep.

In response to this incident, local farmers requested their headmen to help develop preventative measures. “Then Nkosi Vulithuba, our headman, wrote to Ntinga and the South African Police Service Stock Theft Unit requesting this initiative,” Daluzuko added.

Daluzuko stated that the farmers using the Nyandeni Dipping Tank who benefited from the program come from all the villages under the Qokolweni Zimbane Tribal Authority. He also promised to invite Ntinga again, as there were some farmers who were left out of the program.
